These antiques of tomorrow have been selected to provide enjoyment with the potential to achieve antique status. These rugs are individually made using knotting methods, design color and fibre mix unique to their region. They have undergone washing, and shaving of the pile. In some cases this results in some color bleeding. They may have been professionally repaired, or may have some pile wear. These are sold at a fraction of their cost and should not be dismissed as they have a very good resale value and some will become valuable antiques.
